

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO.

Thursday, September 24, 1913

There was a light frost in spots Monday morning.

Miss Adelle LaVacher returned from Cheboygan for a visit last week. Daniel Stephan has moved with his family to Newell, Penn. where the Avalanche will find him every week. Solon Holbrook and family came down from Mackinaw City last week for a visit with Grandpa Newman, and a rest.

Joe Kraus took the man Cook, who was convicted of assaulting him last week to the Detroit House of Correction for sixty days board.

Adam Sheets, adjudged insane at our last term of court was taken to the asylum at Traverse City, Tuesday by Sheriff Stilwell. He took Smith who was convicted of larceny, and J. F. Wilcox were voted as the highest boys in the bunch at the Solon home last week.

G. Vallad was down from Maple Forest Monday. He reports all in his neighborhood practically out of the way of frost, and that but slight injury has been done.

The Goodfellow club met at the home of Mrs. Woodworth Tuesday evening this week to select a course of study for 1915 and 1916. It was decided to take Chautauqua Course as outlined in the magazine of that name. The 9th annual preliminary meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bates, Monday evening, Oct. 2nd.

WE ADVISE Every married man in Grayling to cut this item out of the Avalanche before handing it over to his wife or daughters for perusal.

Miss Williams requests the pleasure of your company at her Millinery Opening, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 20 and 30, 1913.

Will Chalkley, who is best remembered here as one of our high school boys, has been promoted until he is manager of the large general store at Waters. Grayling boys get there all right, and we are glad to note their advancement.

July 31st a warrant was issued against Ray Rotstord for the larceny of a watch from the section foreman at Lewiston. Sheriff Stilwell put the watch dogs out along the line, and he was caught by the officers at Saginaw Sept. 22d. Deputy Sheriff Nolan went down after him. Friday night and Monday he pleaded guilty in justice Mahon's court, who thought sixty days in the house of correction would be about right.

President Waldron, Commander Dell Smith, Adjt. Pond, Chaplain Ingerson and Comrades C. W. Wright and J. F. Wilcox were voted as the highest boys in the bunch at the Solon home last week.

The unqualified success of the re-union last week is largely due to the personal efforts of Comrades Korbey Smith and Pond, who gave unlimited time and attention to every detail.

Johannesburg Items Farmers are busy cutting corn and digging potatoes.

Mr. Dan Rankin expects to open his new livery stable next week.

Mr. John Rasmussen has been clearing the lots recently purchased from the Johannesburg Mfg. Co. on Birch street between Salling and Hanson avenues. It will make a decided improvement in the residence part of our village.

Dr. Knapp now owns one of the finest driving teams in northern Michigan and says he doesn't have to take anybody's dust. Just what he needs in his business.

The merchants of Johannesburg are busy getting in large stocks of goods for fall and winter trade.

Christmas is coming. Mr. Sim Lewis has his new and beautiful residence on Maple street nearly opposite the residence of F. L. Michelson, nearly completed, and is counting the days when he can take possession.

Mr. Fred Larson is completing a modern up to date residence on the corner of Salling Avenue and Maple streets, opposite the residence of N. Soderberg. They expect to take possession soon.

Mr. J. K. Merz spent Sunday with his wife at Saginaw, returning Monday morning.

Mr. R. Hanson and N. Michelson of Grayling drove over from Gaylord on Friday of last week. They were delighted with the many improvements made in our village since their last visit here. Mr. Hanson was the guest of his mother and brother John, and Mr. Michelson the guest of his son F. L. They took the flyer home on Saturday. Come again.

The trouble with a professional alienist is that he never meets persons. He only meets subjects.

And the trouble with a professional philosopher is that he tries to measure the infinity of human nature by the little tape-measure of his own experiences, his own limited observations, his own faulty powers of deduction.

The alienist doesn't say: "Here is a seemingly attractive individual. I shall cultivate him. He might make a good friend, a sprightly companion." Not at all. What inwardly he says is: "Here is a case. I shall study its inhibitions. It may constitute a new type. I might even be able to put it into an article or a lecture." He has a perfectly rotten time, going along through life. He's bound to have. Existence for him is a card-index system, a filing-cabinet full of neatly labeled specimens, an orderly collection of disordered curios, and this world is a daily museum wherein all creation is asked and each living creature—with the exception of himself and possibly a few of his brother-alienists—is merely out of focus.

On the other hand, the philosopher says: "Ah, here now we have a condition. I shall apply to it the processes of my own peculiar and personal school of philosophy, and having arrived at a conclusion, will broadcast it forth as being positively the best word as that particular topic."

He has a lovely time of it. Anybody who thinks this is infallible always does have a lovely time of it—while he lasts.

To be sure, the philosopher is like the fun of us except that we apply to a concrete example our own little separate philosophies, whereas he, in an effort to take in the entire race, the whole universe, spreads himself out so thin that you can look right through him and see his back suspended buttons.

A friend comes to us with a harassing private problem. He has reached that deplorable stage where he seeks advice for solving a riddle which, in the final analysis, only he can solve or should try to solve. He follows an ancient formula. He says to us: "If you were in my place what would you do about it?"

And gibberly we answer: "Well, old man, if I were you I'd do this and so on."

Now, what we should say, reversing the ritual is this: "Well, if you were I, you—meaning I—probably would do this or that about it. But inasmuch as I am I and you are you, and I am what I am and you are what you are, with different impulses from mine, different heritages, different temperaments, different viewpoints, you'll have to handle this job your own way—and, may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

So far as I am concerned, the task is a very simple one.

But before I tackle it, permit me to repeat what the expert and scholarly Doctor Durant wrote in amplification of his large, bald, bald original premise:

He added this: "A man above thirty may go wild over a blonde 'charlie.' That is not love. Love is absolute devotion—the desire to give full service to another."

To which I would reply no follows: "I don't know a damned thing about it. I don't profess to know. I don't believe Doctor Durant knows a damned thing about it either. I think he makes a mistake—but one common to philosophers—in setting up to know anything about it."

As I look at it, a man past thirty or a man of any age between the later stages of adolescence and the early stages of senility, may be capable of love—or then again he may be incapable of love. Everything depends on what particular man you have in mind.

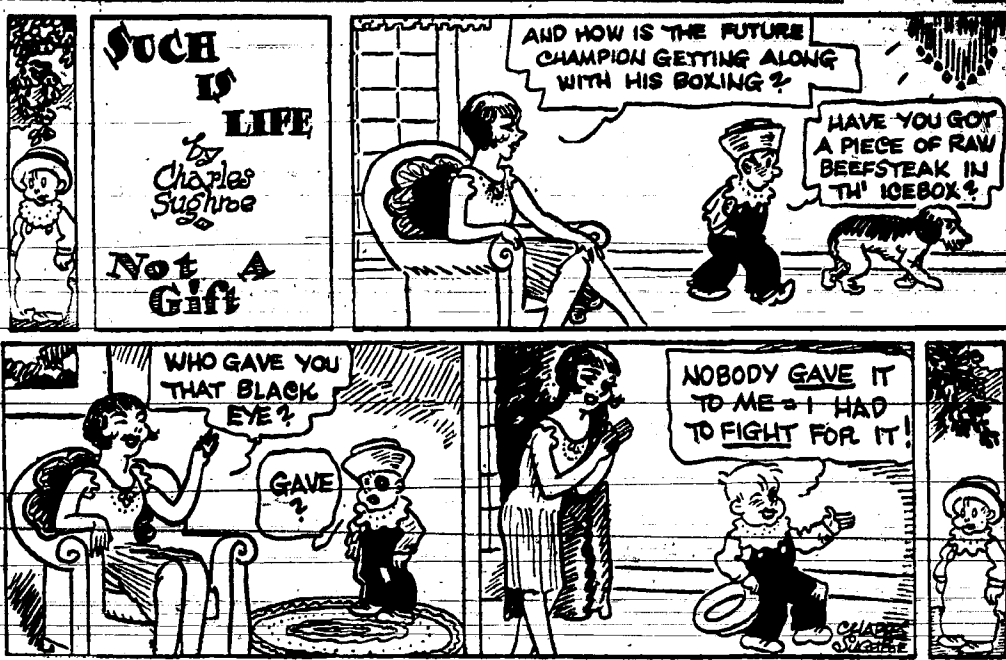

It's like this: You mention, say, a bird and instinctively each one of us thinks of a bird. One thinks of a wren, another of a robin, another of a parrot, a fourth of an ostrich. Each one of us is thinking of his own bird—the image of a bird which the mention of the word creates in his brain—not of the next fellow's bird.

You mention love, and to this one love means this thing and to that one love means another thing. And so on and so forth. I claim that if you think you are in love and think it hard enough, why then you are in love—only, it's your own special sort of love, which is not to be confused with any

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Lime Sown in Fall Makes Better CROP

East Lansing, Sept. 24.—Application of lime to the fall has several advantages over placing the material on the ground in the spring immediately preceding the seeding of legumes. One result of liming soil is the improvement of soil conditions for the bacteria that are needed to make the growing of legumes a success, and the longer the limestone is on the soil before seeding the greater is the improvement in these conditions. In the experience of the M. S. C. soils department.

Spring grains usually yield best on not too closely grazed, or next fall plowed soil, and on these soils the limestone can be applied during the slack periods in the fall or winter. The limestone can be applied on soils which are being fitted for fall grains, but should not be applied after the grain is sown.

Tests for soil acidity should be made before the lime is applied. A large percentage of Michigan soils are acid, and will require from one to one and one-half to three tons of lime—row and make the best crop. Other stone to correct the acid condition. Timberland tracts may be greatly improved by soil testing outfits and will test or thinning. Trees of the less valuable soil for the owners in their counties, able kinds and the smaller, over-or the farmer himself can obtain one crowded, crooked, and large-limbed of the testing outfits.

Herb Records Prove Purebreds Are Best

East Lansing, Sept. 25.—Daily production records from 1,820 Michigan herds show that purebreds produce more milk and butterfat than grades and that the season in which a cow freshens has a marked influence on the yearly production of milk and butterfat.

Purebred cows had an average annual production of 8650 pounds of milk and 324 pounds of fat, according to the latest records with the grades averaged 7713 pounds of milk and 315 pounds of fat. The value of corn meal, 2 parts of ground oats the milk would be 20 dollars more for without butter, and 2 parts of mid-dlings, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Mix this ration produced more than 500 pounds more with milk, using 2 pounds to 1 pound milk than those which freshened in milk.

The summer. The seasons in the order of best production are fall, winter, spring, and summer.

It has been known for some time that cows which produce their largest but in increasing the production per milk flow during the spring and summer, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Why milk and money return over the year, due to lower prices in the months of high production. Now it is found that a lower price is received for the milk and a smaller volume of the product is obtained.

Michigan ranks first among the states in the number of herds which produced an average of 500 pounds or more of butterfat per cow last year. Eight herds produced more than 500 pounds and 166 herds in this state produced more than 400 pounds of butterfat per cow for the year.

Give the Clover a Chance

If red clover seeded last spring is used for pasture this fall, it should not be too closely grazed, or next season's hay crop may be decreased. The planting should be allowed to go into the winter with some growth on the crowns.

Groom the Timber Tract

Some tracts of timber may profit made before the lime is applied. It has been known for some time that cows which produce their largest but in increasing the production per milk flow during the spring and summer, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Why milk and care for 20 common cows when you can make more money by milking and caring for 10 selected high-producing cows?

In fattening turkeys for market an excellent plan is to begin about the first of October to feed night and morning, feeding just enough at a time so that the birds go away a little hungry, and gradually increase the quantity until they are given all they will clean up three times a day the week before marketing.

In judging dairy heifers it is desirable to have in mind not only good looks based on general appearance and conformation, but also their possible development and their production when mature. The fact that animals change somewhat in many points of conformation from calfhood to maturity makes the judging of heifers more difficult than that of cows. The outstanding points to be considered in judging heifers are length and depth of body, fullness of barrel and chest, and dairy temperament (that is, the quality which shows their tendency to convert feed into milk rather than into body fat and flesh). The development of the udder should be noted, but this point should not receive too much consideration as with cows in milk. Heifers should be large for their age and show vigor and a thrifty, growing condition, indicated by a sleek coat and a soft pliable skin.

The annual Top O' Michigan Town and County Choir and Chorus Singing Contest will be held at Gaylord on Friday morning, November 2, at 10:00 o'clock in connection with the Sixth Annual Top O' Michigan Potato and Apple Show, according to R. W. Tenney, Director of Short Courses at Michigan State College, who has charge of these singing contests.

This contest, which is conducted under the auspices of the R. E. Olds Community Music Fund and the Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, is open to any choir or chorus in towns of 2,000 population or less (according to the 1920 census) or a chorus representing any rural organization.

The following rules and regulations are laid down by the committee in charge:

1. Each choir or chorus must consist of at least six singers and as many more as possible.
2. The contest will be open to church or chorus members of the church or organization represented.
3. The leader and accompanist may or may not be members of the choir or chorus. If they are not members, they must not participate in the singing.
4. Two selections will be rendered by each contesting group.
5. The second selection must be "Has Risen Today, Alleluia." (The first line is "Jesus Christ has Risen Today, Alleluia" or in some hymn books, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today, Alleluia" or "Hallelujah." The music in each case is from Lydia Davidson. Each choir or chorus may use the words that happen to be in their hymnal.)
6. The scoring will be based on:
 - (a) Attack and Finish
 - (b) Loud and Soft
 - (c) Fast and Slow
 - (d) Volume of tone
 (This covers a wide range of interpretation)
7. Pitch
8. Enunciation

The prizes offered will be the same as usual, viz: 1st $100, 2nd $50, 3rd $25, 4th $15, 5th $10.

This Singing Contest is attracting more interest at the Potato Show each year. Last year there were ten entries from a radius of 100 miles. Several inquiries have already been made this year. If you have a church choir that falls under these rules and regulations, plan now to enter and take part.

FREDERIC NEWS

Last Friday the community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Edward Preston (nee) Craven which occurred at Lansing. The remains were brought to Frederic on Sunday morning and laid to rest beside her brother in Elmwood cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

Corydon Forbush and family were up last Saturday from Lansing. Mr. Forbush and family will occupy their house for the time being.

Adolph Dellaire had the misfortune to fall off the Asa Leng store steps when the storm was on last Monday necessitating a trip to the hospital; threatened with a broken arm.

The Bond baby passed away Monday afternoon.

The funeral of Bert Allen was to be held last Monday afternoon. The Misses William and Helen Allen, who are staying at their uncle's Albert Lewis, and going to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle drove to Caro last week on business.

The Doyle Allens' who were recently married, occupy the Geo. Burke residence.

John Parsons and family of Rogers City, Mich. Sunday school at Frederic.

Friends of Mrs. Frank Trudeau of Onaway will be sorry to learn of her accident while enroute to their old home in Canada when she was in an auto wreck and had both arms broken above the wrists. Mrs. Charles Sullivan, her daughter, is the nurse.

Reports are in circulation that the road between Frederic and Grayling will soon be torn up, widened and tarred which will surely be a great improvement, as this was one of the first gravel roads in the county and was originally nine feet wide.

E. McCracken and wife visited at Rogers City last week with a brother-in-law whom the former had not seen for thirty-two years.

Whooping cough in the school, so those not wanting it must "look out a little."

Miss Lola Craven took up nursing at Mercy Hospital but owing to circumstances will probably give it up for the present.

Last Friday Harry Odell had the misfortune to break his leg again and is again in the hospital. He spent the fore part of the summer there.

ST. HELEN NEWS

Mr. Claude Lydell, overseer of the state fish hatchery at Hastings, was a recent visitor in St. Helen, making a survey of the fish nursery to be built on Lake St. Helen. A dam forty feet wide is to be built, with a six foot head. Several acres of land will be flooded. Mr. Lydell expresses the opinion that the St. Helen project will be one of the best nurseries of the state. The work is expected to be finished this fall so that fish fry can be planted next spring.

Ward L. Preston of Saginaw, a member of the Lake St. Helen Club, is an ardent lover of nature and delights to get into the fastness of the woods where wild life abounds. During his frequent visits to St. Helen the past summer he has seen dozens of deer and ten or twelve bear. During a visit last week he had his greatest experience with Mr. Brown. Traveling along M-7, just south of St. Helen, with his wife and little granddaughter, a mother bear and two large cubs broke across the road just in front of his car. One of the cubs almost went under the car, and to save itself turned and ran down the road in front of the car for some twenty rods before it finally swerved off into the brush.

Mr. Talbert Abrams of the Airline Corporation of Lansing, with B. E. Hammond, pilot, spent four days at St. Helen the past week, making aerial photographs of Lake St. Helen, the Au Sable river and the 9000 acres comprising the game preserve of the Lake St. Helen Club. In addition Mr. Abrams made a survey of the proposed airport and golf course to be built by the club. This tract of land embraces some 300 acres on M-70, and is large enough to accommodate both improvements at one time.

Mr. Abrams states that St. Helen will have one of the most convenient landing fields in the state outside of the large cities. The club plans to do considerable work this fall in the removal of cross fences and leveling of land.

Miss Ludington, connected with the nursing department of the Public Health at Lansing, was here on Friday making arrangements for holding classes for mothers. She appointed Mrs. Rex V. Preston (nee Margaret Carter) as chairman.

Lansing Sept. 25—The Game Division of the Conservation Department reports that applications for permits to conduct fur farms, and correspondence pertaining thereto, promise to be even greater this fall than during the peak attained last spring.

Many of the letters indicate that there are a good many inexperienced people who are unduly optimistic over the future of the fur farm business.

During the summer months, H. D. Ruhl, Department of Conservation specialist in fur bearing animals, has visited dozens of licensed fur farms in order to become thoroughly acquainted with the problems confronting the licensed fur-bearers.

Under the law a permit must be taken out by everyone who has protected animals in captivity during closed seasons, and anyone who engages in fur-breeding operations must construct satisfactory enclosures and must take out a license before he may legally sell or otherwise commercialize protected fur-bearing animals.

Over 300 licenses were made last year—125 on mink, 50 on skunks and 30 on beaver are now outstanding and the administration of the fur-breeder's license law has developed many new and difficult problems.

When pan-broiling steak be sure to have the skillet very, very hot at the start. Put the steak in the hot skillet and sear the sides quickly from side to side until well seared, then cook at reduced heat to the desired degree—rare, medium, or well done. Serve promptly on a hot platter, and add the seasoning of butter, salt, and a little pepper, after the meat is put on the platter. In turning the steak put the fork into the fat or edges, not into the center, or the juice will run out.

CAUTIONS HUNTERS TO BE CAREFUL OF FIRES

Lansing, Sept. 24—Chief Fire Warden Andrews has issued an appeal to hunters to be careful of their fires this fall. "The hunter who thoughtlessly tossed aside a match or burning tobacco or does not watch his camp fire is a threat to the entire state," he said. "During the early weeks of the hunting season the woods are usually dry. Leaves are under foot and it is a very easy matter to start a fire. I beseech Michigan hunters to be doubly cautious this fall. A few minutes devoted to precaution may save the State and its people thousands of dollars."

TEACHERS OF CRAWFORD COUNTY ENJOY A RARE TREAT

All of the teachers from the rural districts except one who was absent on account of illness, together with a fine representation from the Grayling Schools were present Saturday in the auditorium of the Grayling High School to listen to a very interesting program, a copy of which is given below:

Music—Grayling High School.

Paper—"The value of nature study in the grades," Miss Louise Hawkes, Asst. Prin., Frederic.

Paper—"How to influence boys and girls to attend High School and college," Written by Miss Grace Nolan, teacher in South Branch Township Unit and read by Miss Evelyn Barber, Prin. of Primary Dept., Frederic.

Paper—"How to teach reading in the grades," Mrs. Josephine Owen, Frederic, teacher in Dist. No. 3, Maple Forest.

Talk—"How to discipline a school," Supt. Roland Bogus, Grayling. Explanation and discussion of the Child Accounting Forms, Supt. W. D. Hill, Department of Public Instruction.

A representative from Michigan State Normal College was present and solicited the teachers to join a group to take an Extension course in Gaylord with instructors from the college mentioned above. A discussion followed in favor of getting a group of teachers in Crawford and Roscommon counties to take the course in Grayling. With the last mentioned plan the instructors will come from Central State Teachers College. One gets the same credit from these courses that they do in residence and it is much cheaper. Your Commissioner favors having the course given in Grayling and will report later when the problem is finally solved.

In points of interest and ability this was one of the best programs ever rendered at a teacher's meeting in Grayling and each part reflected much credit upon the speakers.

UNUSUAL PLANT GROWS IN RAILROAD OFFICE

(By E. M. T. Service)

Travelers who have occasion to use the Detroit & Mackinac Railroad at Oscoda while waiting the arrival or departure of trains get some enterprising through studying a unique flowering maple which has a place of honor in the office of the agent, J. M. Amley. The maple has had its home in a tub in the agent's office for a half-dozen years, having been sent to him from Commings. The maple has undergone many frost-tudes and through injuries from frost in winter has had many surgical operations to relieve it of injured branches. The main trunk of the maple today juts sharply out at right angles because of these operations. The maple blossoms the year round and possesses beautiful bell-shaped orange-pink flowers.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS PILOTS FOR NAVY PLANES

According to a report from the Navy Recruiting Station at Detroit, Michigan, Uncle Sam will require the services of more than 250 trained Aviation Pilots to assist him in the operation of his "dogs of war" and battle planes for the coming year. The fine skill necessary for the operation of planes in fast war maneuvers, being catapulted from the decks of speeding ships and landing in restricted areas, has made the requirements for Aviation Pilot very rigid. In addition to the above, 3000 radiomen will be required to handle messages for him, 1892 cooks to prepare food for him and 8766 hospital corpsmen to care for his sick.

A message to the editor of this paper from GENERAL MOTORS

JUST about a year ago we published, in your advertising columns, a message in which we sought to give you and your readers an idea of what General Motors is and what it is trying to accomplish. At that time the public was purchasing our cars at the rate of about one in every three; and our Frigidaire automatic refrigerator and Delco-Light electric plants were leading in popular preference in their respective fields.

Since then each of our car divisions has introduced new, further improved models and public patronage has reached the point where almost one out of two automobiles purchased is a General Motors car. Frigidaire and Delco-Light products have showed comparable increases in sales.

The reason for this is two-fold. First, the public wants value for its automobile dollar and recognizes value when it is given. Second, General Motors is seeking so to conduct its operations as to deserve the goodwill of the public.

We are particularly impressed with the number of letters which have come to us from editors of small city newspapers during recent months. These editors, who are in a position to reflect local sentiment, speak of the goodwill which attaches to General Motors in their communities and express an obviously sincere appreciation of the character of General Motors' advertising in their publications.

For our advertising has been as much concerned with giving your readers facts of helpfulness to them in the purchase of automobiles as with the merits of our own products. Our messages have set forth the principles of trade-in transactions and used car allowances. They have dealt with time payments and the change in the public's attitude toward the used car. Other messages have told of the policies of General Motors and of how our resources are being employed to effect them.

That General Motors enjoys the goodwill of the people in the small cities and on the farms of America gives us an especial satisfaction and confidence in the future. It is in the country sections of the United States that half our population lives. It is there that the whole industry must look in increasing measure for maintenance of the production volume upon which high values and low prices depend. And it is there that General Motors is paying particular attention to its facilities for sales and service.

To our friends in your community we express our thanks.

Wide Concrete Roads!

Experience counts when roads must be paved for heavy traffic. Last year, the mileage of portland cement concrete pavements built on state highway systems of the United States was more than three times the mileage of all other pavements.

It is significant that the largest mileage of concrete roads was built by those states having the heaviest traffic, and the most experience in road building.
